“ My blessed brother. What can I possibly share that would tell the world how wonderful it was to grow up, and old, with you. We shared so many of life's moments, getting through our teens, growing into young adults, finding our wonderful wives, raising our children and seeing our own grandchildren. Most definitely a long glorious journey that seems to have taken but a moment to happen. Thank you so much for staying close to my heart, making me laugh and giving me someone to look up to. You are my brother, my friend and my hero. I love you and will miss you terribly. Till we meet again, your brother Brian

“ Joe, what can I say? You could light up a room like no other. Your smile or your snarl, it was always the most notable thing in the room. I should say though that as a child I noticed how strict you were with Kerri and Rose but it was oh so obvious how much you adored your girls, all of them. I always loved going to your house as kid for sleepovers, the house was warm, we always had fun and the only MTV videos I ever watched at your house were Aerosmith... you said “now that is a Band!” Your leprechaun voice will live on in infamy in my mind, and now thanks to you during our visit last year, it will live on in my daughter Harper’s too. Despite your tough exterior I am so grateful to have seen the love and ooey gooey side of you in my world. It was definitely made much brighter and bolder and I’m beyond comforted to know that you are with Kerri now. May you rest in eternal peace. I know there will be a lot of tears for you. You were so loved and I hope you are watching down on your girls. You are so loved.

“ I am one of the lucky people who has had a chance to meet Joe this past summer. He has to be one of the strongest guys I have ever met. He knew his time was going to be cut short, yet he remained positive . I am so thankful to have had him as a part of my life. My condolences to his family, and I know he would like you to stay positive as well. Joe will never be forgotten RIP my friend
