“ I write this with great sadness over the loss of a dear friend. I want to give my sincere condolence to all of Ralph's' family and friends- with love and prayers

I first met Ralph when I was a professor at Franklin Pierce University in 1970. My Father and Mother -in-law had a poultry farm near Ralph's home where he saw them nearly weekly to buy eggs. I wanted to build a house on some property I had bought near the University. My in-laws knew Ralph well, along with his reputation as being highly skilled in all areas of construction. They asked Ralph if he would build a home for me. He and two of his friends agreed to built the house but as he was working full time on other jobs he could only do it on week-ends. Beginning from the excavation of a day-light basement and every thing in-between to the finish of a 3000 ft. home, Ralph finished it in 7 weekends. Afterwards he did construction for several other faculty members who also was amazed at his work. I have had many other construction projects since then but no one has ever come close to the skill and knowledge and speed Ralph possessed. I had so much fun as working with Ralph, Fran Acres and a young helper that summer. Later after the completion of the house, Ralph took me out in his boat and taught me how to fish for Cod. I had been trying to talk Ralph in coming to Seattle and I would take him out deep sea fishing for Salmon. Ironically I had just wished him a Happy Birthday this past Thursday (Dec. 17) with another attempt to give him a trip to Seattle and a Deep Fishing Trip. I will always remember and miss Ralph. Through life, he was a great person and one of the most honest and sincere person I have been fortunate to know. With love and respect.

“ To the Bertozzi family, I have many wonderful memories of Ralph working with my dad on so many projects. Ralph was always such a hard worker and very knowledgeable and an accomplished craftsman. He and my dad came from that school of thought that when you construct something, you do it once and do it right and it will last a very long time, and it always be something to be proud of. Ralph was it very good, honest, hard-working fellow, the type that built this country into a success.
May all your wonderful memories of Ralph provide you with solace and comfort in this time of need.
