

J. Rosson Overcash

April 14, 2017

He is survived by his wife of 66 years, Mary Louise B. (Baker) Overcash; his children John R. Overcash, Jr., and his wife, Patricia, of Ayer, Martha Overcash of St. Louis, Mo., three grandchildren, Shannon K. Overcash, Branden K. Overcash and Libby Overcash and two great-grandchildren, Dominic and Madeline Valverde.

He was predeceased by his brother Whitson M. Overcash, Jr., of Paris France.

Ross was born in Springfield, Tennessee. His parents were both in the field of education and he followed in their footsteps. Ross attended Harvard University graduating in 1949 and continued on to Harvard Graduate School. While at Harvard he was a member of the marching band where he played the clarinet. Ross continued his association with band for many years as a post graduate. After graduating from Harvard University, he taught at the college level at various schools. He began his career at Mitchell College, in Connecticut, and continued at Northeastern University where he began the Earth Science Department. He finished his long teaching career at Bunker Hill Community College in Boston.

Ross was active in civic affairs in the town of Brookline where he and Mary Lou raised their family. He was a scout leader with Troop 6 and a town selectman for many years. He was also active in his church, All Saints Episcopal in Brookline.

When he retired, he and Mary Lou sold their home in Brookline and moved to Lincolnville, Maine to begin a second career as the owners of The Red House Bed and Breakfast. He enjoyed gardening, growing vegetables and beautiful flowers. For many years, he played in the Lincolnville Town Band, gave astronomy talks at Camden Hills State Park, and was active with the local Boy Scouts as well as town affairs. Ross was a member of Rotary International.

“ *Ron, can you explain what you mean by consent? If I use Facebook's paid ads and target specific people, isn't that the same as targeting any other demographic that Facebook offers?

“ My deepest sympathies to the Overcash family. I met Mr. Overcash and his son Ross when he led a group of Boston area Boy Scouts on a trip to a jamboree in the late 1960s or early 1970s. He was well suited and had the right temperament to lead our group.

“ We have so many wonderful memories of the many happy times we spent together. We were really kids then. The picture of Ross reminded us of our youth. Our hearts go out to you, Mary Lou, and your family. It is amazing that so many years have passed. We have been blessed to have long marriages. Our sincere condolences. Love, Helaine and Charlie

“ What a great picture of him. This is how I remember him - laughing and with that big grin. Now Opa will be able to watch over Libby's wedding and all the milestones in his children's and especially his grandchildren & great grandchildren's life. Opa, you are in everyones heart and will be missed.
