“ I will never forget the times I had with Jay. When I was down and out, he would bring me on to work with him. BECAUSE he knew I was down and out. One of the most generous people I've ever met. And the feeling was mutual. I always tried to send work his way, including little jobs for my parents. I was just messaging back and forth with him, picking his brain about Jeep repairs and improvements. I was planning on having beers with him on my next visit home to Mass. And now I can't. My heart was devastated when I heard the news and hasn't felt better since. He was a good man, and an even better friend. I will always hold a place in my heart and memories for him. Love you Jay!!! I only wish I could've had one last night and beer with you, my brother. You will be missed by many and always by me.
