“Marcia, Great topics! Though essays (which is what it sounds like you want to write) can be a hard sell. If you can turn your experiences into reported service pieces, meaning they have advice from experts that readers can use, those are easier to pitch to magazines for retired people, boomers, etc. You can still use your experiences as a personal anecdote in your pitch lede, but advice will come from experts. Check Writer’s Market, Google, online mag directories, and custom content companies that publish materials for businesses that target this demographic. Good luck!

“ Steve, have you read any of “Black Manhattan” by James Weldon Johnson? From a contemporary perspective he recounts the behind-the-scenes real estate machinations preceding the Harlem Renaissance era, but also makes observations on the IQ and professional profile of NYC blacks vs. the ones who emigrated to other northern cities. Particularly he’s convinced that Harlem didn’t have any rioting in 1919, unlike Cleveland, Pittsburgh, and Chicago, due to its proportions of educated Washington D.C. exiles and West Indian intelligentsia; whereas in Milwaukee and Chicago, the blacks who were recruited literally in trainloads by agents of the factory owners were the most ignorant and rural leftovers in deepest cotton country, and furthermore weren’t socialized to urban life as quickly because they tended to be placed in gang-labor jobs (he notes the steel mills were different and made an effort to select for black employees with previous factory experience). His theory of NYC black identity reminded me of your old blog posts on the racial integration tactics of the military and in pro sports teams.

“ Exactly what I wanted to say! It is defined as a Theory, in any official place, but taught practically for many decades, as Fact. That alone tells you propaganda is hard at work since they do not have the patience to wait until it can be confirmed as a scientific fact. That confirms that scientific truth is being sacrificed for hype, propaganda and manipulation. So now we are actually in the realm of politics, because science has been dumped, along with revealed religion.

“ I will have to agree with the post. If the NIH folks that put together the first graph in this story — were doing that for a grant submission the grant would go un-scored. Talk about bad science — and poor interpretation skills. Is this the best NIH can do. Are our tax dollars actually supporting NIH employees to continually try to justify a system that most agree is flawed. I guess it is better to work within NIH — and continue to make claims that don't hold water, but are not really judged for their scientific merit. Until the pay line starts to improve, the cycles will continue to spiral downwards causing more and more academic scientist to leave the field and try to support themselves by teaching.

“ Words cannot express our heartbreak over Ron's sudden passing. I first met Ron in 1980 when I was 17 and dating Elaine's baby sister, my late wife Bonnie. He was always fun-loving and gregarious and he loved to travel with us, both in New England and at our home at Andrews AFB and Waldorf MD. He had his own unique take on life and could always be counted on to share his opinion about Rock music. In fact, he introduced me to the band "Rush" and I am still a fan some 25 years later. I have a funny memory etched in my brain about teaching him to shoot along with our Brother-in-Law Steve Ranker. None of us went home with bullet wounds so, it was apparently a success. Elaine has always been a special person to me and both she and Ron treated me like a little brother and I still feel that, to this day. Elaine, we love you and hope that God and your guardian angels lift you up and surround you with love; the same love that you have always shown to us. So, I leave you with this, "In nomine Patri, et Filiee, et spiritus, et Spiritus Sancti.

We cannot imagine not seeing his smiling face everyday as he would be coming out the door to go to work or going on a shopping adventure with you. We will always remember him as such a gentle man who always said hello to us, no matter what he was doing, Steve is surely going to miss their music trivia together, always trying to outsmart each other and their love of football, especially the Patriots. Whenever we think of him, which will be often, it will always be with a smile on our faces and love in our hearts. Heaven is so lucky to have this man, Ron-Bo RIP*

I wish that I could be closer to you as you go through the difficult days ahead. Prayers and love are always with you. Ron was a gentle soul who is now in Heaven. I'm not sure how the Patriots will do down here on earth without him each season, but we'll all try to cheer them on for him. I have many fond memories of yours and Ron's visits over the years. Ron was always happy with whatever we did or didn't do. He was an avid trivia and history buff who could outshine anyone with his knowledge and enthusiasm. He will be missed by so many.
Be sure to give the kitties an extra hug each day from him.
