“ I should think he could have afforded turning it down (But what do I know?) In any case, I think he acted in a way, that all ethical concerns aside, was totally without thought as to what would come of it. Even if he doesn't care at all about Uzbekistan and the personalities of Karimov and his daughter, he should at least care and think about the fallout that such a decision inevitably incurs. Did he not think that people might see this as questionable???? Is he not even concerned with his own reputation, if everything else that is problematic here does not stop him?

“ Hi Grace! If you don't have cupuacu I'd recommend subbing out another soft oil with a melting point around 35°C—shea butter might work, though it's not as smooth. If you do try to use more cocoa butter, you'll need to do the fiddling yourself to get a texture you're happy with. I wouldn't increase the beeswax as it's such a powerful thickener and has a far higher melting point.

“ It's hilarious. Especially since EA is likely going to wait 6 months then surreptitiously slide the whole microtransactions thing back into bf2 and hope no one calls them out again. It's also sad, since I really wanted a good triple A star wars game. ;-;

“ Thank you to the Terry's family for giving us the opportunity to help with Terry's care. She always was a joy to be with. Her strength and positive attitude was inspiring. Her wit was never ending. I will miss her. She'll be watching over you. She loved you all very much.

“ So sad to hear of Aunt Terry's passing. My childhood was full of adventure and laughter thanks to Aunt Terry and the rest of the camping gang "The Last Of The Mohegans" is what they called them self's. She knew how to have a good time and could make a dull boring campground full of excitement. No matter where we would go Aunt Terry's great sense of humor and love of fun along with Auntie Amy, Aunt Bernie and the rest would spill into everything they did. I am truly blessed to have known her and like to think she is with the rest of her camping gang singing around the campfire and playing cards.
