“ My name is Steven Tuthill and I worked with Bill at Livingston & Haynes from 1983 - 1992. I remember him as the guy who computerized the office when everything was still being done with pencil/paper and a 10-key adding machine. He was ahead of his time technically, but also always approachable for young members of the firm. Any question you had you could come to Bill. You might have to brave the pipe smoke coming from his office and you had to allow enough time to get the answer, but he never turned you away. I just saw this obit when looking up another L&H co-worker and felt the need to write.
